

Ever wish you could clone yourself?

November 3, 2018

Replicants

- Karthika Vandavasi
- Tim Brophy
- Emily Koehler

Mentor: David Guidos

Not-so-fun facts

More than 1 in 5

parents with children under the age of 13 are working nonstandard schedules

17%+

of the U.S. workforce is coping with an unstable schedule

47% of two-parent families

Have both parents working full time

The Problem

- Many women lack adequate child care and immediate assistive services for emergency situations.
- With the on-demand economy, schedules are less certain which makes it hard to handle everyday emergencies.

Why Other Apps Are Inadequate

- Few, if any apps provide last-minute service
- Other apps offer expensive services.

How “kloneMe” Can Help

With kloneMe, users can add trusted associates to their network who will trade assistance, or simply assist for free.

Users can join even if they are not a child care or healthcare professional.

Use Case Situations

Child Care

You have an important appointment but no sitter.

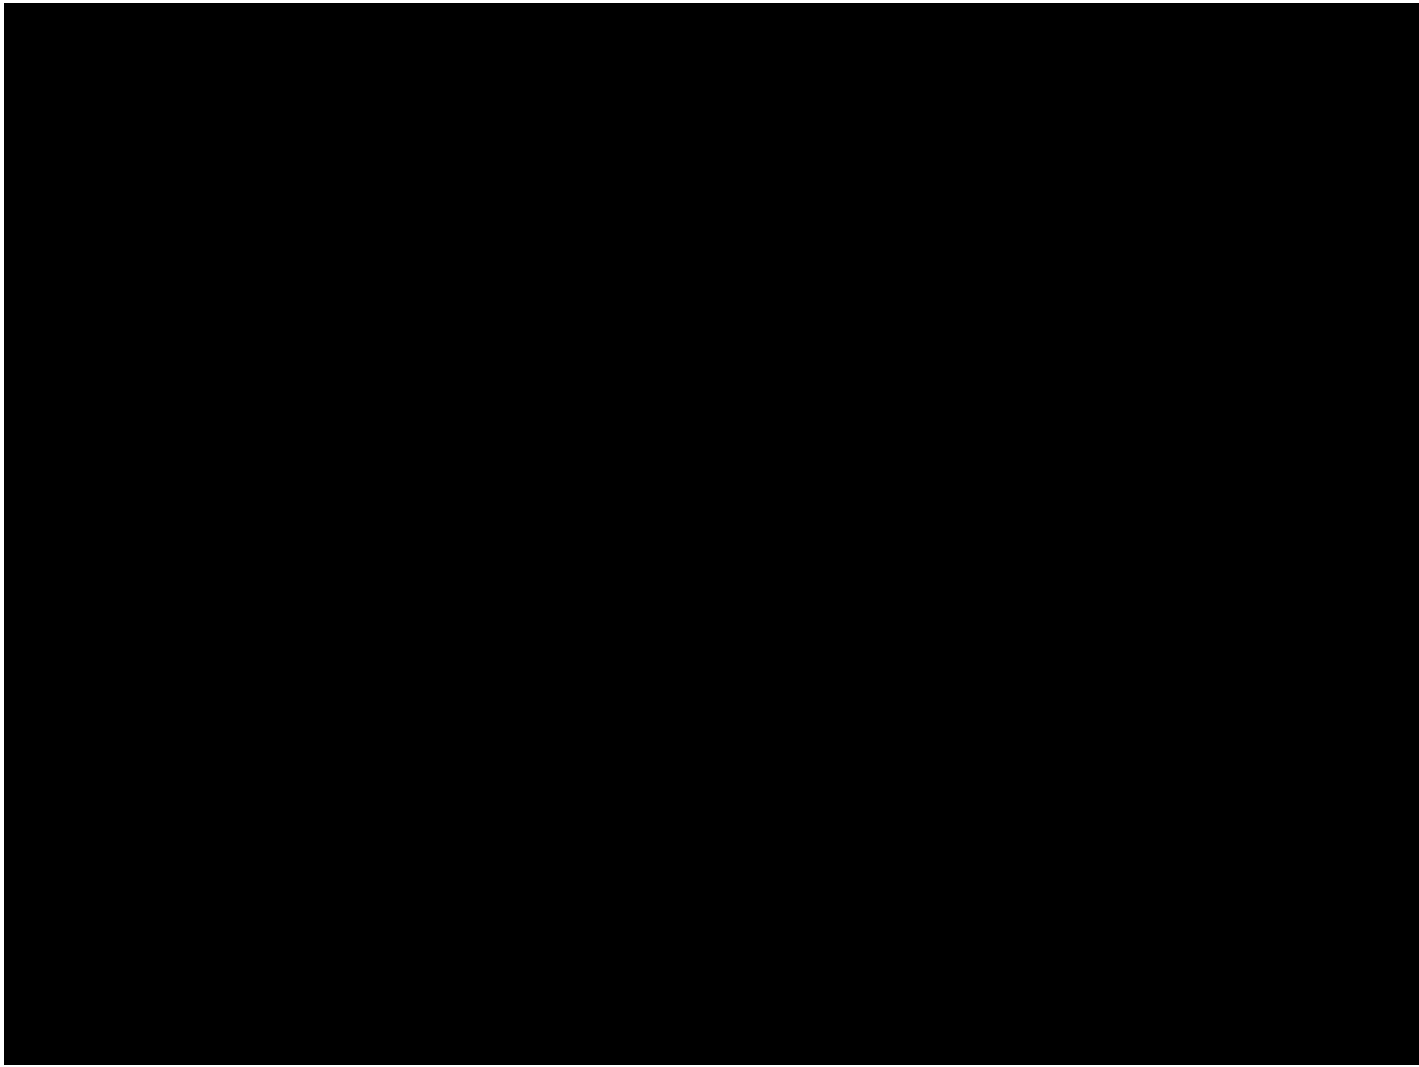

Change of Plans

You get a last minute call-back for the audition.

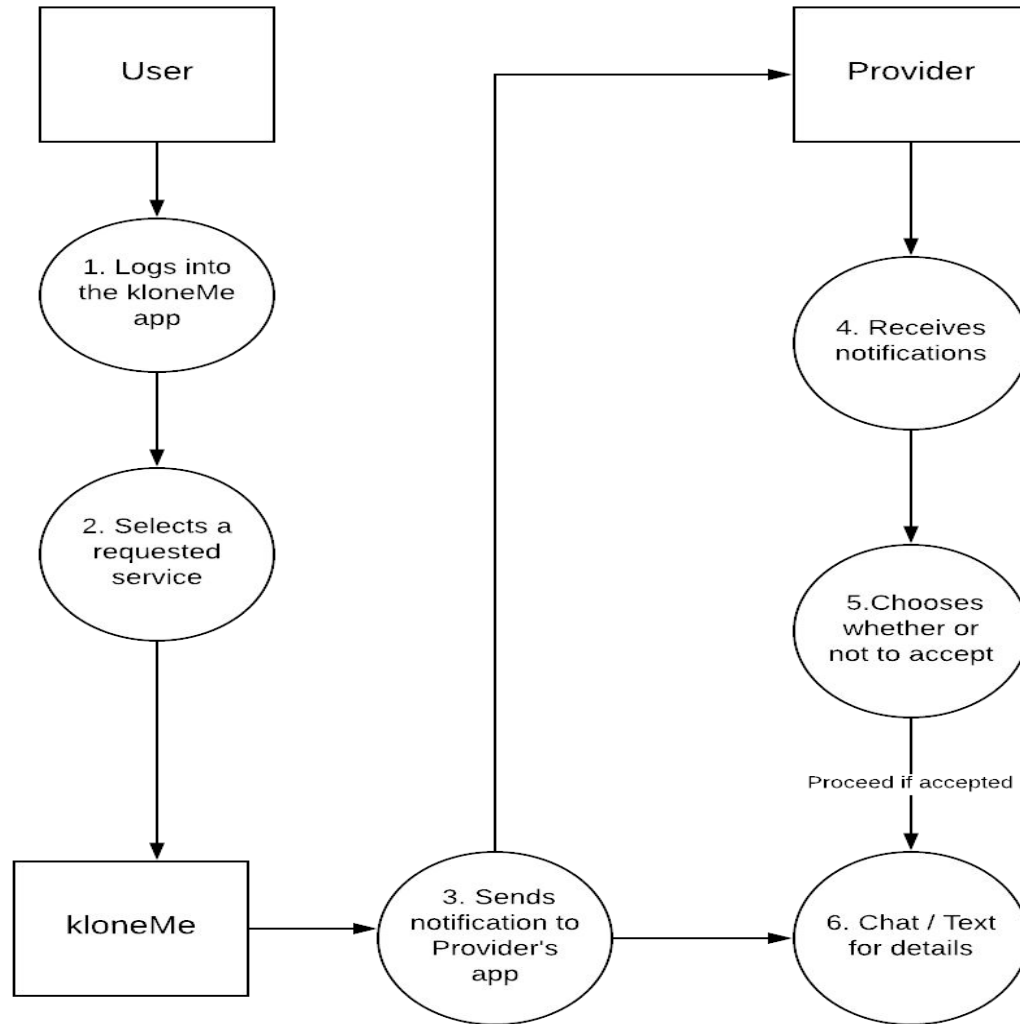

Health Care Emergency

You get a call from the Nurse's office at school.

How It Works

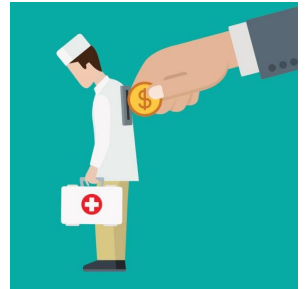

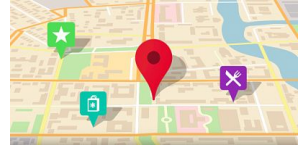

Components

- Add or delete Providers
- Send and receive service requests
- Open chats for updates and details
- Add appointments to calendars

kloneMe 2.0 Feature Additions

1. Serve Requesters a list of Providers based on location of the request & will visually display users on a map.
2. Requesters and Providers can choose to review each other on a number of factors related to their service interaction.
3. Possible monetized options to help pay for platform upkeep would include allowing paid care providers to use the service and charge a fee, such as mileage or rate per hour. Other users could still provide free services to family and friends.

Empowering Women and their Families

Get more done at work by reducing schedule disruptions

Quickly schedule secure care for children and loved ones

Stay connected with quick chat and updates

Thank you! Do you have any questions?

